Not sure how useful it is. Aston on Trent is classified as a 'Key and Local Service Village'. Am not sure what the criteria are for a village to be classified as such. Yes, there are 2 shops in Aston, but the bus service is virtually non-existent (no buses at evenings or weekends). No attempt has been made to upgrade infrastructure in the nearly 40 years we have lived here but more and more houses are given the go ahead to be built.

The roads cannot cope with further traffic, the doctor's surgery is oversubscribed and don't seem able to cope with the current demand and parking for access to it is atrocious. Sadly Aston is losing its village feel, more an outlying suburb of Derby and the more house built the worse it becomes

Do you have any further/additional comments? (Please provide details)

No further building should go ahead in Aston or Weston until a real and meaningful upgrade of the infrastructure takes place. Developers are only interested in their bottom line and couldn't give a fig for the communities they build in.

We have to resist the temptation to allow them to develop land in villages surrounding Derby
